Applicable to: CVM
Author: Laura Molgaard
Review: Administrative Council
Approval: Final authority

POLICY:

1st-3rd year veterinary students pay a block tuition that covers all CVM course offerings for fall and spring semesters only. Students who want to take classes offered during the summer semester, either within or outside of the CVM are responsible for paying the full tuition and all applicable fees. Students who register for courses offered by other University of Minnesota colleges (during any semester) are required to pay for the additional tuition charged for those courses.

Students who earn a grade of F or N in a required course in either the spring or fall semester are occasionally offered the option of a remedial course over the summer (as determined by the Student Promotions Committee in accordance with the Academic Standing and Dismissal Policy). In that case, the student will be responsible for paying for additional tuition over the summer. The amount of credits for the remedial course will be determined by the Student Promotion Committee and students may be assessed additional fees depending on the amount of credits.

Students transferring to the CVM from another veterinary school may be required to take summer courses in order to complete DVM curricular requirements prior to joining the regular DVM curriculum.

4th year Veterinary students pay a block tuition that covers all CVM course offerings for fall and spring and summer semesters. Students who get a grade of D in a rotation will be required to repeat that rotation and pay tuition unless the rotation can be made up over a vacation block.

PROCEDURE:
Students registering for courses that are not covered by the DVM block tuition will be billed for tuition for the additional courses.
